EIGHT NEWMAYER & DILLION LLP LAWYERS NAMED TO 2007 ‘RISING STARS’

Firm Attorneys Recognized in Latest Surveys of Their Peers

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — Earning recognition by their peers, eight attorneys from Newmeyer & Dillion LLP’s Newport Beach headquarters were named to the roster of 2007 Southern California “Rising Stars,” a compilation of the area’s up-and-coming attorneys from the publishers of Super Lawyers.

Repeat honorees were: Jeffrey M. Dennis and Shane E. Coons, partners in the firm’s highly regarded litigation group, and partner Charles S. Krolikowski, an eminent domain specialist, as well as associates Bonnie T. Roadarmel, an insurance specialist, and Carol Sherman Zaist, a business and real estate litigator. Making the list for the first time were construction litigation partners Shawn E. Cowles, Jay B. Freedman and Laura Watkins Ives.

Rising Stars is compiled by Law & Politics magazine of Minneapolis to showcase the top 2-1/2% of lawyers in an area who are either 40 or under or have been practicing 10 or fewer years. The roster is published in the July issue of Los Angeles Magazine and in Southern California Super Lawyers — Rising Stars Edition.

“We are proud that the potential of more of our outstanding attorneys has been recognized,” said Greg Dillion, co-founding partner of the business and real estate-law firm. “This is particularly gratifying since the selections were made by other lawyers.”

Now in its 22nd year, Newmeyer & Dillion LLP offers statewide legal services from offices in Newport Beach and Walnut Creek, with more than 50 lawyers handling a diverse scope of business, real estate and financial matters.
